Description

Commerical General international Sander

General International Edge Belt Sander, likely a model similar to the 15-210M1 6" x 108".

- This type of machine is used for sanding the edges of workpieces, particularly in woodworking.
- It features a long sanding belt that can be used horizontally or vertically, and often includes a wrap-around table for versatility.
- These sanders are typically powered by a single-phase motor and designed for industrial or heavy-duty shop use.

- When considering purchase, look for features like belt tracking and tension adjustment, quick belt release, and a durable cast-iron platen.
